

STEVENS
INSTITUTE of TECHNOLOGY
THE INNOVATION UNIVERSITY®

Archives &
Special Collections
SAMUEL C. WILLIAMS LIBRARY

COLORING BOOK

CREATED FOR #COLOROURCOLLECTIONS 2019

The Archives & Special Collections department at the Samuel C. Williams Library actively collects, preserves, and makes accessible primary source materials that document the academic, administrative and extracurricular activities of Stevens Institute of Technology, the Stevens family of Hoboken, and the history of science and technology.

www.library.stevens.edu/archives

 @stevensarchives

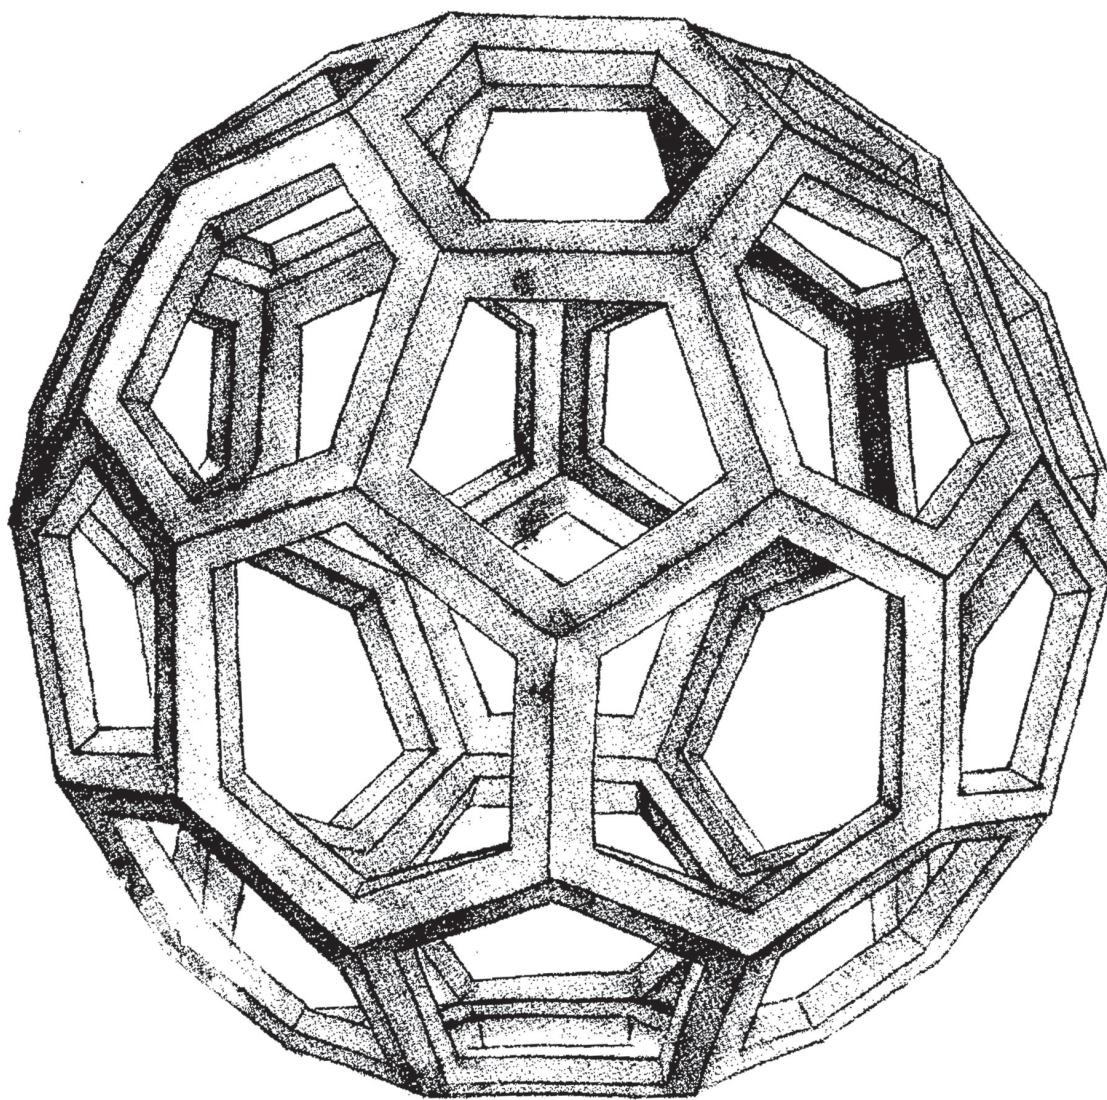

Δωδεκάεδρον κορυφών ἀφαιρημένων κενόν

Plate XXXIII - Truncated and elevated dodecahedron with open faces (Duodecedron abscisum elevatum vacuum), drawing attributed to Leonardo da Vinci from De divina proportione (1509) by Luca Pacioli

Archives & Special Collections, Samuel C. Williams Library

. XXIII .

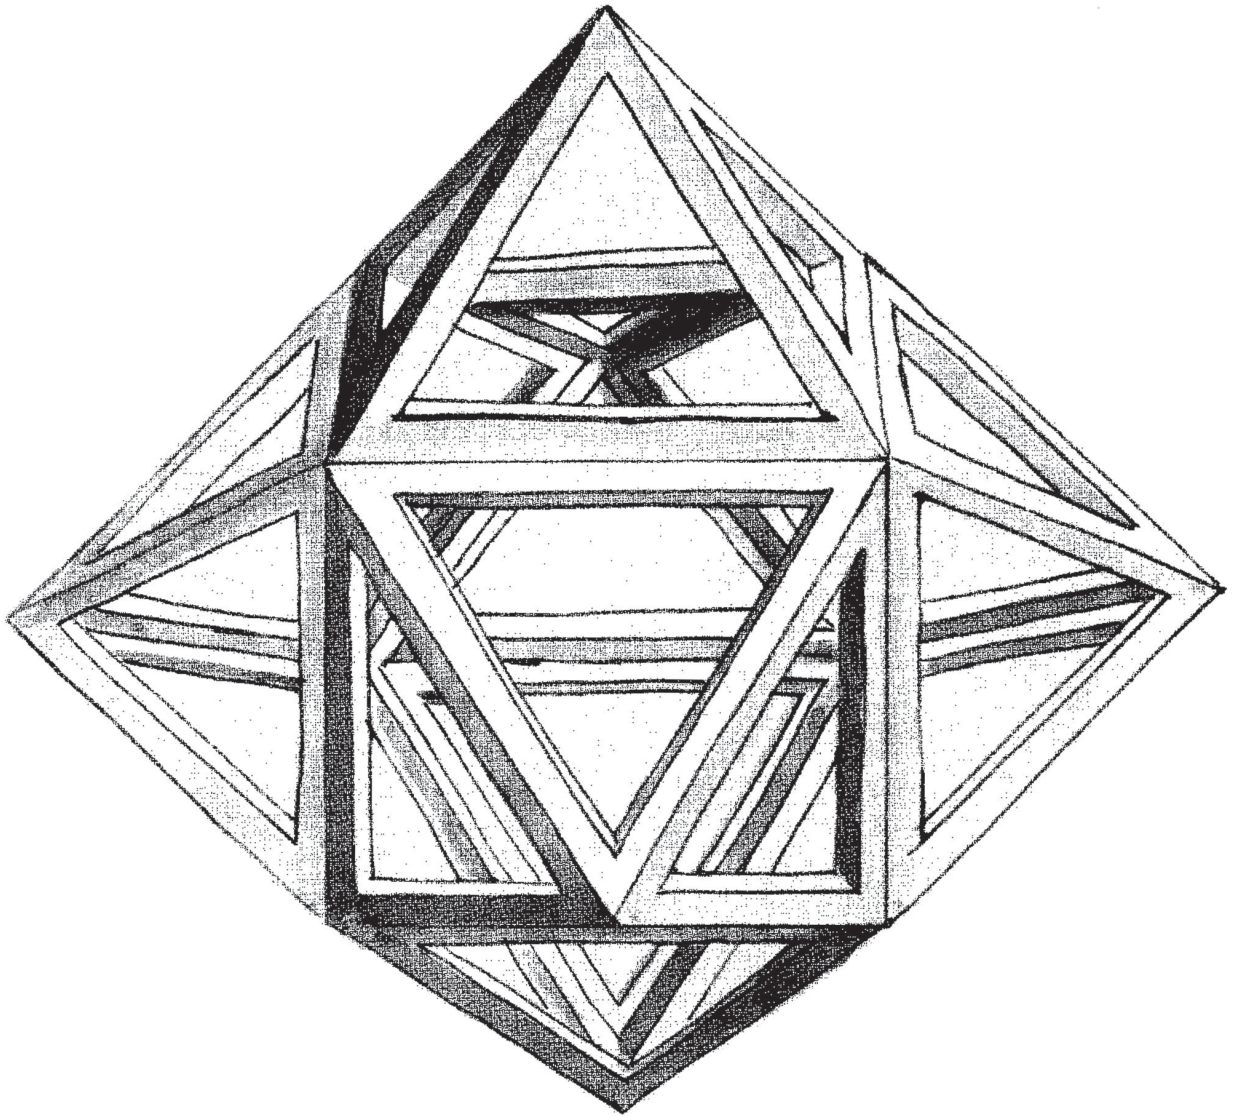

<sup>7</sup>
Ἐνκοσάεδρον φάκεθ' ἄνοιον

Plate XXIII - Truncated Icosahedron with Open Faces (Icosaedron Abscisum Vacuum), drawing attributed to Leonardo da Vinci from De divina proportione (1509) by Luca Pacioli.

Archives & Special Collections, Samuel C. Williams Library

XII

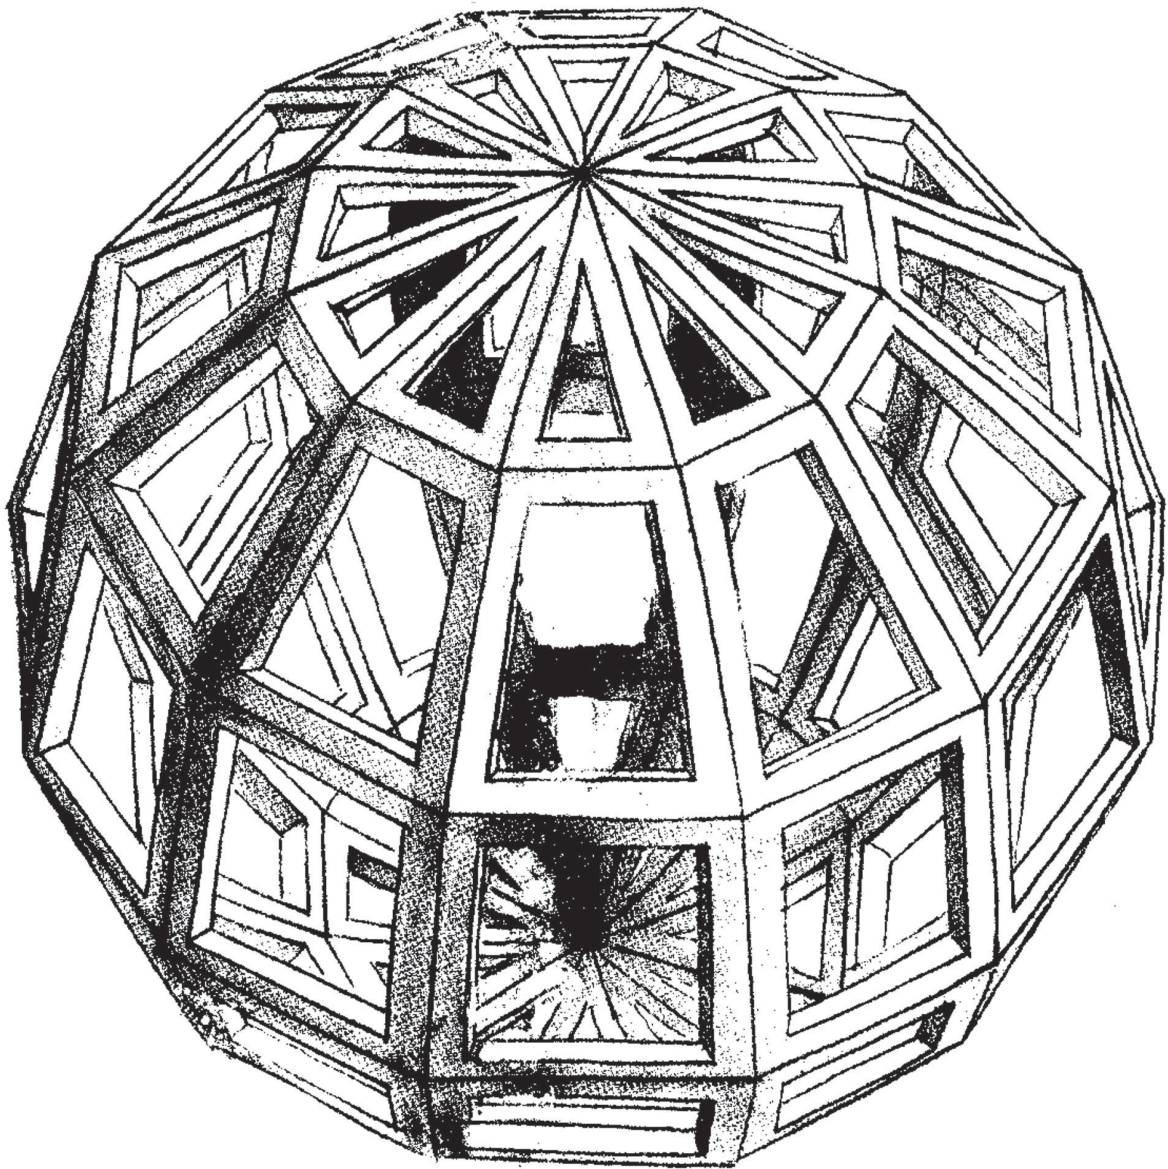

Ἐξάεδρον ἀρ. γέν. κενόν

Plate XX - Elevated octahedron with open faces (Octocedron elevatus vacuus), drawing attributed to Leonardo da Vinci from De divina proportione (1509) by Luca Pacioli.

Archives & Special Collections, Samuel C. Williams Library

XL

Ἐβδομήντα ὡς βάσεων κλεισῆ

Plate XL - Campanus sphere, with seventy-two open faces (Septuaginta basium vacuum), drawing attributed to Leonardo da Vinci from De divina proportione (1509) by Luca Pacioli.

Archives & Special Collections, Samuel C. Williams Library