50 YEARS OF WOMEN
AT FAIRFIELD UNIVERSITY

This coloring book was created for the New York Academy of Medicine's #ColorOurCollections week 2021, with content from the Archives & Special Collections at the DiMenna-Nyselius Library, Fairfield University.

The year 2020 marks the 50th anniversary of the arrival of Fairfield University's first full-time female undergraduate students in 1970. While a celebration of coeducation at our institution, it is also an opportunity to pause, reflect, and honor the many women who have contributed their time and talents to the Fairfield University community over the last 50 years. These images depict the many faces of women at Fairfield University. We hope you enjoy these coloring book pages, and invite you to join us in celebrating this milestone.

For more information, please visit our 50th Anniversary of Women at Fairfield University resource page: <https://librarybestbets.fairfield.edu/exhibits>

Images were curated and scanned by Elise Bochinski, University Archivist, and Jennifer Mottelese, Archives Assistant, with digital tracings and original artwork produced by Fairfield University student, Lilah Heyman (class of 2021). Lilah is a studio art major with a minor in graphic design and education.
