

Astronomer Vera Rubin looking through a telescope at Vassar College

Coloring page made by AIP Niels Bohr Library & Archives staff, based on a photograph from Vassar College, courtesy of AIP Emilio Segrè Visual Archives. Catalog ID: Rubin Vera F7

Early electrostatic generator used to create static electricity on the surface of the large globe

Coloring page made by AIP Niels Bohr Library & Archives staff, based on a photograph from the AIP Emilio Segrè Visual Archives, Darrow Collection. Catalog ID: Darrow Karl H4

Installing the AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF PHYSICS letters on the new AIP building, which served as headquarters from 1957-1993 - 335 E 45th Street, New York, NY

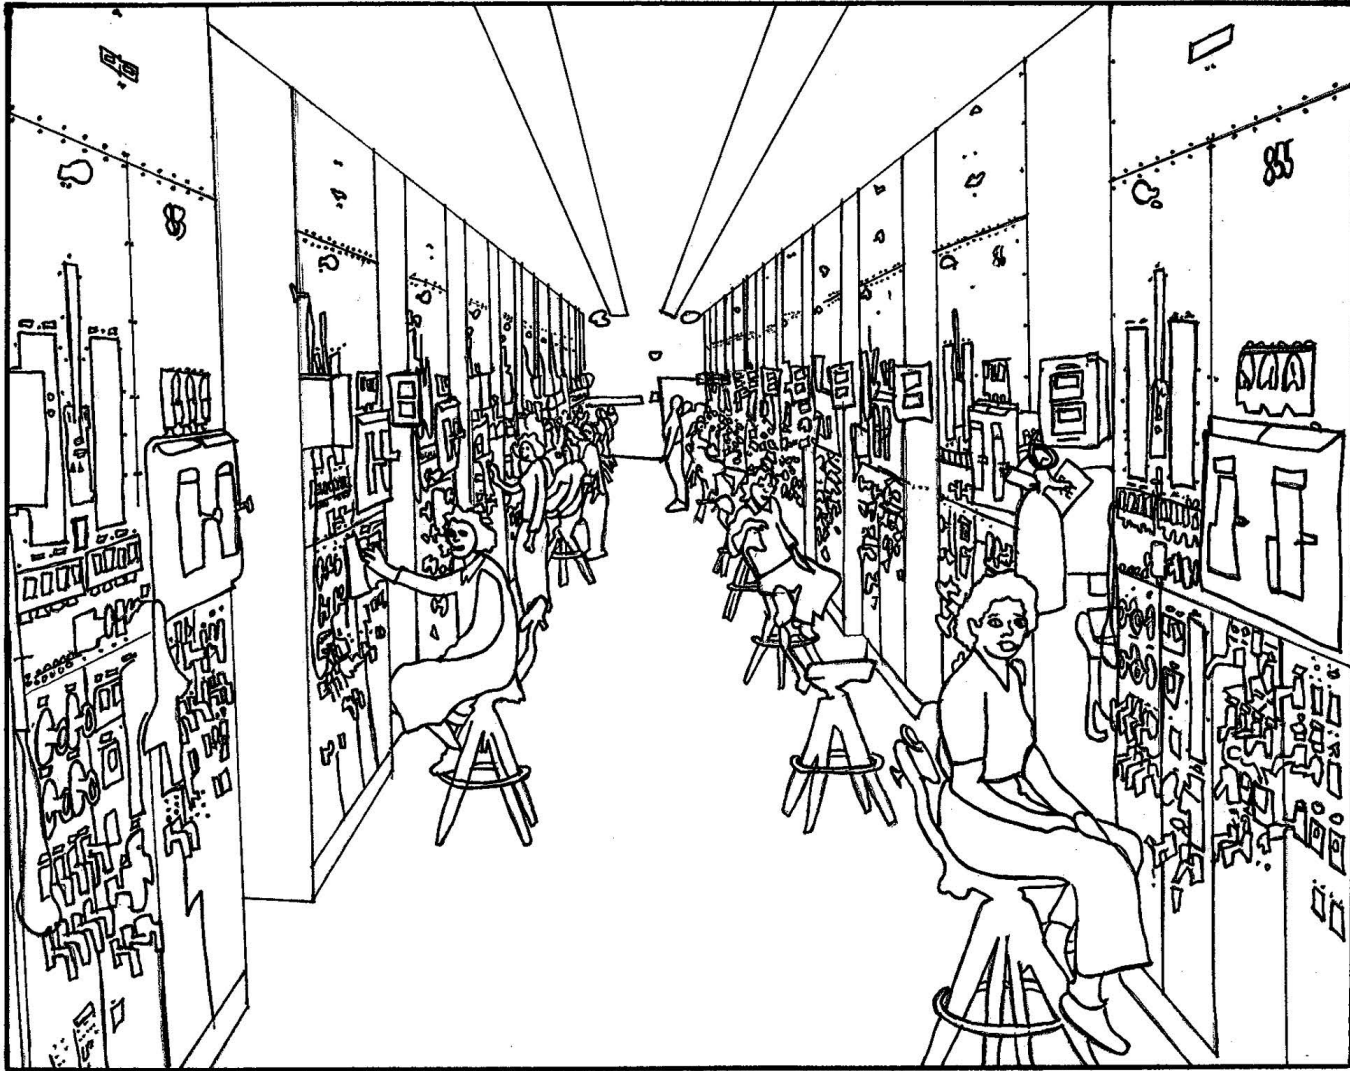

Coloring page made by AIP Niels Bohr Library & Archives staff, based on a photograph from the AIP Emilio Segrè Visual Archives, American Institute of Physics Collection.

Physicist Albert Einstein playing the violin, based on a sketch by Emil Orlick

Coloring page made by AIP Niels Bohr Library & Archives staff, based on a lithograph by Emil Orlick (1928), courtesy AIP Emilio Segrè Visual Archives. Catalog ID: Einstein Albert B12

California University cyclotron operators at Oak Ridge National Lab, circa 1945

Coloring page made by AIP Niels Bohr Library & Archives staff, based on a photograph from Oak Ridge National Laboratory and Digital Photo Archive, Department of Energy (DOE), courtesy of AIP Emilio Segrè Visual Archives. Catalog ID: Oak Ridge National Laboratory F1