

THE EIGHT-HEADED SERPENT

THE great god Susano walked by the river Hi. He walked for four days and saw no living thing. At evening on the fifth day he lay down to sleep in the bamboo thicket, close by the river's edge.

He dreamed that he saw a beautiful maiden floating down the river. A great monster rose from the water and was about to swallow her, but the god swam out and saved her.

Susano wondered about his dream, and in the morning he said to himself: "In this beautiful land it seems strange that I find no living thing. I will go on up the river
