What could I do? Then all of a sudden I remembered it was leap year

Should a Girl Propose?

WHAT has been your experience? Did you propose to the man you married? Some of the finest women have done so and the result has been the very happiest marriages. The old time-honored custom, though, is for man to do the seeking. A real man does not want the woman of his choice to take anything for granted. Our mothers, most of them, were proposed to in the old-fashioned, formal, kiss-of-the-hand way; in fact, I believe the regular form then was to keep him waiting in suspense for his answer. And surely those old-time marriages have been happy. Now what do you think, should modern day living change things so that the girls should have the same right to propose marriage as the man? Write your Editor what you think. Make letters brief, write on one side of paper only. Send letter with your address attached to THE GENTLEWOMAN by July 1. We will pay $5 for the best letter, $3 for the second best letter, $2 for the third. Answers will appear in August GENTLEWOMAN. Address, Proposal Editor, THE GENTLEWOMAN, 615 West Forty-third street, New York.
