

2022

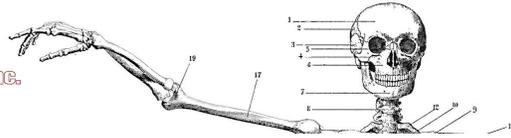

#COLOROURCOLLECTIONS

From The medical mirror. Or treatise on the impregnation of the human female. : Shewing the origin of diseases and the principles of life and death, Ebenezer Sibley, 1840

<https://archive.org/details/b29298775/page/59/mode/2up>

From Vaccination brought home to you, R Swinburne Clymer, 1904
<https://archive.org/details/1913423/page/n3/mode/2up>

(392)

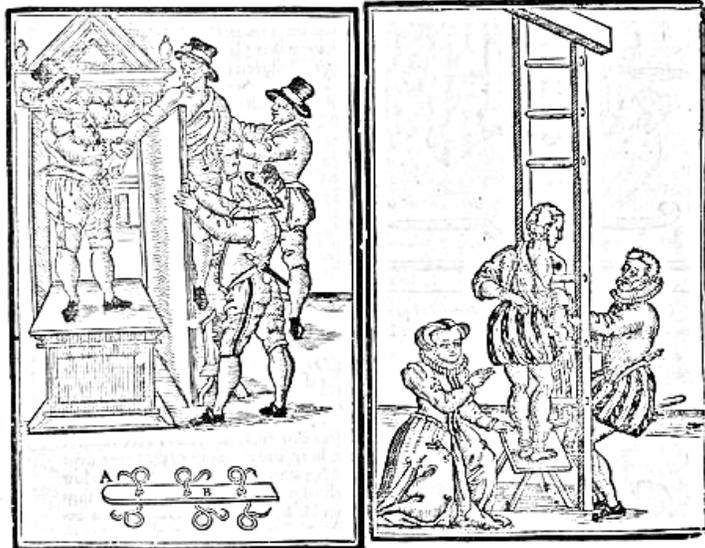

Concerning Dislocations, or Luxations.

LIB. 16.

being set, the stool, which a little before was plucked from under the Patients feet, shall be put there again, that he may, with the more ease and less pain, pull back his arm from the step of the Ladder. For if he should lift it high up to draw it over, there would be danger, lest being newly set, and not well itaid, the head of the bone might fall out again. I have thought good to have all these things here expressed, that you may learn this operation, as if you see it done before you. I have not thought fit in this place to omit the industry of Nicholas Picart, the Duke of Guise his Surgeon, who being called to a certain Country-man to set his shoulder being out of joint, and finding none in the place besides the Patient and his wife, who might assist him in this work, he put the Patient, bound after the forementioned manner, to a Ladder, then immediately he tyed a staffe at the lower end of the Ligature, which was fastned about the Patients arm above his elbow; then put it so tyed under one of the steps of the Ladder, as low as he could, [and got altride thereupon, and sat thereon with his whole weight, and at the same instant made his wife to pluck the stool from under his feet: which being done, the bone presently came into its place, as you may see by the following figure.

Another figure expressing the fourth manner of restoring a dislocated shoulder.

Another figure to the same purpose.

If you have never a Ladder, you may use a peece of Wood, laid across upon two Posts. Also you may use a door, as the other figure shewes, wherein you must observe a flat peece of wood or spanda with strings thereat, whose use shall be shewn in the following Chapter.

CHAP. XXVII. The sixth manner of restoring a shoulder, luxated into the arm-pit.

See. 1. lib. 1. de
art. sect. 19.

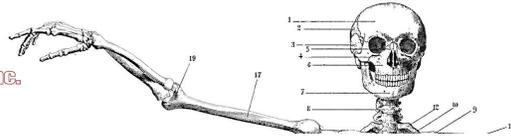

Hippocrates writes, that this is the best way of all to restore a dislocated shoulder. You must take a wooden spanda of some four or five fingers breadth, and some two fingers thickness or less, but some yard or thereupon long, the one end thereof must be narrow and thin, with a round head standing up and lightly hollowed, that put under the arm-pit, it may receive part of the head of the shoulder bone, the which for that purpose must not bend towards the ribs, but to the top of the shoulder. This upper part of the spanda must be wrapped about with a linnen or woollen rag, or some such soft thing, that it may be the softer, and hurt the less; and then it must be so thrust under the arm-pit, that it may thoroughly penetrate into the inner part between the ribs, and the head of the shoulder bone. There must, besides in this spanda, be two holes in three severall places, each alike distant from other, through which soft strings be put, whereby it may be tyed to the arm, stretched all the length thereof even to the fingers, in one place a little below the head of the shoulder bone, in another

The description of the Globe
foreman, see med. Anbi.

From The workes of that famous chirurgion Ambrose Parey, Ambroise Paré; Adriaan van de Spiegel, 1649

<https://archive.org/details/workesofthatfamo00par/page/n3/mode/2up>

From Icones plantarum medicinalium. Abbildungen von Arzneygewächsen, Johannes Zorn, 1779

https://archive.org/details/b30534732_0006/page/6/mode/thumb

SECTION OF THE GREAT ROUND TOWER, AT BARBADOES.
FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

From Curiosities of science past and present : a book for old and young,
John Timbs, 1875

<https://archive.org/details/b21497424/page/n5/mode/2up>